

VIVIEN GOULD AND LORD DECIES LICENSED TO WED

They Visit the Marriage Bureau
at City Hall and Pay the $1 Fee.

John de la Poer Beresford, Lord Decies, peer of Great Britain, and Miss Vivien Gould, daughter of George J. Gould, who is twenty-six years his junior, went to City Hall to-day and obtained a license to be married. The wedding will take place in St. Bartholomew's Church on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 7.

Miss Gould and her fiancé drove to City Hall in one of Mr. Gould's limousines and were accompanied by one of Mr. Gould's lawyers, whose name was not divulged. Guided by the lawyer, they appeared at the Marriage License Bureau and called for City Clerk Scully. Mr. Scully had been expecting them for several days. They were anxious to avoid curious eyes, and as the Board of Estimate was meeting at the time attention was drawn from them.

Mr. Scully led the couple to his private office and they filled out the usual applications. Miss Gould appeared unusually pretty in a pink turban and a flowing cloak of the same color. She seemed very much embarrassed and filled out the form without uttering a word. His Lordship's only comment was "most extraordinary"—a phrase which he has enunciated every few minutes since he landed. When the time came to pay the license fee of $1 he said in a hearty tone, "By Jove, I will and gladly." He dug into his trousers pocket and produced the money.

Miss Gould gave her full name as Helen Vivien Gould, her age eighteen, her home No. 87 Fifth avenue, her father George J. Gould, her mother Ruth Kingston and her birthplace this city.

Lord Decies gave his age as forty-four—just two years under George Gould's age—his father's name William Francis, Lord Decies; his mother Catherine Dent, his home Setton Park, England, and his birthplace Dublin. In answer to the question as to number of previous marriages he wrote "nil" in the application.

BROOKLYN BANK QUITS BUSINESS; WILL PAY IN FULL

Terminal Institution Refuses
Deposits and Notifies Patrons to Withdraw Money.

Following the lead of other financial institutions in Brooklyn, the Terminal Bank, at No. 8 Sands street, decided today to wind up its affairs and go out of business. All of its depositors will be paid in full.

No deposits were received to-day and none will be taken in the future. The officers of the bank sent word to depositors to come and get their money out; that there was plenty of money on hand to pay all.

The Terminal Bank was a part of the Jackson system controlled by the Williamsburg Trust Company. In going out of business it simply follows the lead of the Williamsburg Trust Company. The Brooklyn Bank went out of existence in the same way. They did not get enough new business after they had reorganized to justify their continued existence.

SUES FOR $100,000 ESTATE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 24.—Laura Burtha, McCann of Hudson Heights, N. J., who claims to be the daughter and sole heir at law of the late Dr. Jacob W. Barton of this city, instituted court proceedings here to-day to get the $100,000 estate left by the physician.

John P. Barton of Somerville, Mass., administrator and brother of the dead man, claims that he and his two brothers, James H. of Denver and William H. of Medford, Mass., and his two nieces, Eleanor M. Fish of Dorchester, Mass., and Addie Leonard of Worcester, are the sole heirs.

Dr. Johnson's "Holidays."

From the Westerner (Seattle).
How well we could imagine him (Dr. Johnson) "watching the healthy sale of the morning" from the top of an east-west-bound motor bus, after an uncertain ascent of its incalculable stairs; or lingering in the draughts of underground subways ("I declare, sir, better than the sea!"), listening to the wapping in a mist of tarry anemias, with Howell in attendance and positively aching out for the doctor's feared rebuke to touch the water-wire. He would still be able to take his afternoon collation in his favorite bathing place—the Chebira Cheese. And afterward, had he a mind to view to advantage "the gentle convulsions of declining day," he could turn his steps to St. James's Park. There, while the sun set over the roofs of Palladian, we could picture him on a seat rocking in sympathy with the swish, pat, and crunch of children digging in the sand-pit, or leave him on the bridge to heave and chuckle at the business-like antics of the little Canadian divers, as they dip the water and rise again, their yellow eyes shining in the falling light like glowing coals.

Just the Thing.
(From the Louisville Courier-Journal.)
"It could be woven into the pattern."
"What are you talking about?"
"Strange that nobody has ever utilized the dollar mark as a figure for expensive things."
